SPECIAL THREAT TESTING

Survival Armor® Demands More!

The NIJ 0101.06 standard is the minimum performance test for body armor offered to law enforcement and other first responders. Before Survival Armor sends a vest off for certification it must pass our performance test against special threats. Special threat bullets are more difficult to defeat than the standard NIJ bullets and are threats commonly found on the street.

Additional Special Threat Rounds Tested on LEVEL II and IIIA Armor

The research and development laboratory at Survival Armor® is a state of the art facility. The lab is modeled in accordance with the specifications of a NIJ certified test laboratory. Our laboratory can accommodate all sizes of hand gun ammunition for testing.

The NIJ Roma Plastilina #1 is heated to precise temperatures to produce accurate results in our research and development. Each R&D shot can be witnessed through a large window as our pneumatic system fires the test round down range. Survival Armor utilizes Oehler chronographs to precisely measure the velocity of the test rounds during this process. The Survival Armor Research and Development lab enables us to create cutting edge ballistic models to protect our law enforcement and military communities.

Our in-house testing facility allows Survival Armor to quickly respond to law enforcement department concerns on new street threat ammunitions they come across for peace of mind.

LDSS STRAPS (Load Distributing Strapping System)

Through extensive research and field trials, Survival Armor® has created a strapping system like no other! Its patented ergonomically shaped shoulder straps and reversible load distributing shaped side straps give the officer the ultimate choice in comfort.

The unique shape of our reversible load distributing strapping system gives the officer added comfort while holding the vest in its correct position. This also provides the choice of either 2” or 4” attachments to the front of the vest.

The reversible load distributing strapping system, when pulled snug, elongates the REVOLUTIONARY shaped strap to distribute the weight of the vest over the lumbar area.
CONCEALABLE CARRIERS

VERTEX$^7$ AND VANTAGE$^7$ CARRIER

Dual rear plate pockets have been added to give officers the ability to add additional protection.
